KEF BOARD OF DIRECTORS
MISSION STATEMENT

SOME TIPS!

The KEF Scholarship Review Committee is made up of three members who read through each application and score the following parts of each application based on an established scoring scale. Therefore, you are competing with other students for the largest scholarship amount possible. Since KEF scholarships are not need-based, and they are completely merit-based, it is a good idea to make sure that you spend time on your essay (letter of application), work to keep your GPA up, and make sure that your application is complete and mailed in prior to the scholarship deadline. Here are the areas that the Scholarship Review Committee scores when they read your application in order of importance:

- ❖ GPA – this can account for up to 50% of your score for some applications
- ❖ Letter of Application – this can account for up to 30% of your score
- ❖ Letters of Recommendation – this can account for 30% of your score
- ❖ Resume – your resume can account for up to 10% of your score.

All KEF scholarship recipients (with the exception of Career Development) must agree to participate in the Mentorship Program – as a mentee (underclassmen) or as a mentor (upperclassmen and graduates).

Participation in the mentorship program will not be time-intensive and is intended to be a benefit to you as students, through activities including communicating via email, participation in a KEF networking website, group meetings, study groups, and campus events.

Once you have applied for funding with KEF, and been awarded a scholarship, you will be contacted by KEF’s Program Manager to determine your participation in the program. Students who refuse participation will not receive future funding from KEF.
